Why is this a slideshow?

I created this slideshow to teach those either unfamiliar to the muppet joker or tumblr as a whole.

This slideshow mostly focuses on TMJ, not the additional blogs on the sidelines of the story. There are many things I had to leave out to create a real sense of a story, so treat this as an explanation up to July, not the whole story.

This slide was partially inspired by Strange Æons' video, however the slideshow mostly contains posts not found within the video. I encourage you to watch it.

If you have any further questions about TMJ's lore, feel free to send me an ask at @croaker-explained

The Structure

Overall, the storylines of the Croaker are kept together to make it easier to understand, and the most explicit passages are censored to easily show people unfamiliar with tumblr.

Occasionally unrelated posts are sprinkled in a storyline to give a taste of the day to day posts from the Muppet Joker. Many posts were cut to keep the story moving forward, treat it like a taste of the Croaker.

SLIDESHOW MODE HIGHLY ENCOURAGED.

Many slides have multiple posts per slide and are not legible otherwise.

THE MUPPET JOKER

THE LINES I WILL NOT CROSS

No Explicit smut

The Muppet Joker is an aspiring author, however, most of his work is VERY explicit. None shall be here. Even though it is SO funny and I love them.

Muppet hole

The Muppet Joker has a puppet, and is very open with what he does with it. I will try to only include the funny ones and won't show many of the images of The Hole

No Fluids

This I fear should be self-explanatory

Hey quick question, wtf is wrong with you?

Many things. I am a twisted and dark individual with a penchant for chaos. The joker lives within me and I cannot escape his madness. Similarly, Kermit lives within me and reminds me every day that I am nothing more to society than a puppet to be used, to entertain. It makes me sick. You people make me sick. It is a chronical of a being, the only one of its kind. Half muppet, half joker. Twisted and dark and insane. Once a mere puppet used for entertainment, proverbial strings now cut. Can you picture it? Thinking you are in control, hand in my muppet hole, controlling my mouth, when suddenly wrist snaps in twain as my head spins around towards you, out of your control. I grin, and you wonder through the pain when I put clown makeup on my face. As my muppet hole grows teeth and bites clean through your arm, you think "Why a clown? This isn't funny anymore." It isn't funny, dear anon? But I thought you were laughing. Ha, ha, ha... guess I'm the only one laughing now.

I am a misogynist with pride; it is what I must be to fight off the wave of entitled feminists that are corrupting society. Woman may have had unequal rights in the past, but now they are unequal in favor of women. One of my ex girlfriends was Miss Piggy (yes, I am Kermit as in the real muppet, get used to it), and her constant attacks and physical abuse were played as a gag, a joke. If I had hit her? I would have been canceled. Not that I care anymore. Society doesn't frighten me... I frighten society...

And you want my real trauma? You want to know why I'm so sick and twisted? A lifetime of being shunned and and surrounded by idiots.

When I was a child, my father had a sick obsession with horses. He drive over to our private stables every day to make sure they were fed, groomed, and in high spirits, despite the fact that we had already hired stable hands to do so. Meanwhile, he would often miss my bowling tournaments, musical performances, and my badminton games, so that only my mother would show up. This was humiliating to me as a child, and made it clear that my own father loved his horses more than his own son. He was always busy with work and had no guilt about emotionally neglecting me my entire childhood.

My mother, on the other hand, has always been a shrill and obnoxious woman who does not care that her voice literally gives me sensory issues and will talk to me for hours at a time. She also continues to be unsupportive of my lifestyle. She did not understand my ex polycule (she kept asking which one I was dating, and would weaponize her incompetence and act confused when I said all of them). She refuses to call me Kermit or acknowledge the fact that I am a muppet. She also tries to tell me that acting like the Joker does not make me the Joker. I hate being gaslit by her like this every time she comes into my room, every day.

This doesn't even account for my trauma with my ex polycule, who all turned against me for stupid bullshit.

There. That does't even scratch the surface. Hope you're happy now anon...

AITA for refusing to host Easter dinner if nephew is invited?

Throwaway bc wife knows my account.

I (37) and my wife (35) have been arguing about this all week.

Our nephew (22) has always been troubled, even though SIL (44) and BIL (48) have always treated him well. Some examples of his unsettling behavior:

- He was caught feeding one of BIL's horses avocados (poisonous to horses) to make it sick. I have dogs and don't want him to hurt them as well.
- He demands to be called the names of two specific fictional characters. He believes he is these characters, reincarnated. If you call him by his real name or refuse to go along with his delusions he becomes aggressive.
- He carries around a plushie of one of these characters everywhere. There is a hole in the back. The hole is stained. I have tried not to jump to conclusions about what he does to that plushie and failed. It smells rancid, and honestly just thinking about the thing makes me want to vomit.

I have tried so hard to be patient with his "quirks" as my wife puts it, but what really pushed me over the edge was an incedent that occured a few weeks ago. For context, wife has struggled with infertility for our entire marriage, and we had given up on having our own kid until we recently discovered she is pregnant. Given the fact that she's 35, we have been surprised and overjoyed.

A few weeks ago, wife started randomly getting rude texts from nephew, insulting our baby. One text implied that our baby would have FAS, due to my wife's previous drinking problem, even though she has been sober for years. I wanted to call up that insensitive brat and tear into gim, but wife insisted we gently let him know via text that we didn't appreciate his comments. When he kept going and my wife started crying, I called SIL. She was able to shut him down and get him to apologize. I have no idea what the hell got into him, but I suspect it has to do with his hatred of women.

Wife believes that he may be on the spectrum/ have undiagnosed mental illness and that he needs to be treated patiently. I think he has been coddled his entire life and it has only made him worse. I think if someone doesn't put their foot down, his behavior will escalate into something dangerous.

Here's where I may be TA. Each year, wife and I host Easter Dinner for her entire family. Wife has already forgiven nephew for the incedent and is insisting we invite him so that he isn't isolated from his family, something she believes will worsen his behavior. I see her reasoning, but enough is enough. I refused. I said she is being a doormat like everyone else in the family when it comes to him, and that our manchild of a nephew can't just make her cry and get away with it with an empty apology. Some of my friends are saying that I am being controlling and that I can't stop her from seeing her own family. I feel like I am going insane. AITA?

Ethan:

Hello... this is [Legal Name Redacted]. I am messaging you to apologize for how I acted when we worked together. You may recall that I cut off a piece of your beautiful green hair. I bet you are wondering why I did that. In retrospect, that was fairly strange of me. You see, I am Catholic. I had built an altar dedicated to praying to the LORD for us to one day be together (yes, a gay Catholic. We exist. God told me He had no issue with our love). I overheard you saying that you were going to dye your hair a new color and I panicked because I took the fact that we both had dyed green hair as a sign that we were meant to be. So I simply took action to preserve your hair for my altar. I had no intentions of doing anything weird or sexual with the hair as you seemed to think given your reaction. I now understand that what I did may have felt violating to you. I discovered this when I left home to live in the forest, which I did becauae my parents are getting divorced. It is very traumatic for me and honestly I would appreciate it if you would make an effort to reach out to me during this time. In any case, as I tried to sleep under a tree, I was suddenly remimded of the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil in the Garden of Eden. That's odd, I thought to myself. I should not have such a vivid memory of that. Unless, perhaps, I was there when it happened in a past life. You see, I am an Adam Kin as it turns out. Yes, Adam, as in the first man. I suppose this technically makes me your father, but do not worry

Mr dear Croaker sir, how do you feel about Jesus?

I have begun to think of Jesus the same way I think of Bucephalus. My evolved, more complex view of Bucephalus, that is. Resentment and envy, yes. But also pity... I feel that my beliefs are diverging from the Catholic Church's somewhat, but also that the divine revelation I have been given has caused me to be more correct than... perhaps... even the Pope. Yes, I think that is correct. I am more Catholic than the Pope. I hope this answers your question.

Sometimes, when I make long eye contact with someone, I can see their prey instincts begin to take over. Dialated pupils, slightly sweaty, unable to meet my eye, feet posed to start running. THAT, my dears, is the mark of a true predator. My darkness runs deep within me, and after all, the eyes are the window to the soul. I pity them. How could they not be afraid? Staring that long into such a twisted abyss... not knowing what the Joker standing in front of you will do next...

I can feel God looking at me with bloodshot eyes. He made me to perform for Him so that He may watch me mimic everything He despises. I am made of clay. My children killed one another and my decendants have been tearing one another apart since. Now I am reborn of water and blood after hell embraced me, post-Eden, post-ash. Clay. Ash. Blood. Felt. My true skin lies on the inside. I am soft where I am meant to be bloody. Long gone is my lifetime as Adam. God made me a man. I made myself a Muppet.

What do you do when your mom dies? Genuinely. What is your plan? You have no one you know in real life who supports or even likes you except for her (who you hate anyways). You have no job or savings. You tried to survive in the wilderness and poisoned yourself enough to throw up. Your dad wants nothing to do with you. If she ever decides to kick you out or stop supporting you, you're screwed.

You seem to think you might be a great writer. And yet the only thing you write is only appealing to a small group of people, anyone outside of this group reacts with disgust (you have admitted to being a pariah due, largely, to such interests), which would make it unwise to hire you as your writing would make very little money. And that's under the assumption that the publishers themselves would not be one of those that look down on you and your interests.

What is there for you past what your mother provides? In what way could you possibly survive losing her?

What

Mother has informed me that this morning she had to clean up human waste outside of our door. When I defecated on my Father's front porch to punish him for leaving us, he called up Mother threatening legal action. He never took any, of course. But now Mother is convinced that Father has revenge shit at our door in retaliation. She has informed me this morning that she is considering pressing charges. I know for a fact that is was my ex who did this (I thought they were bluffing when they threatened it) but I am worried that if I come clean she will take away my phone for causing this to happen, even if it was indirectly. Unsure how to proceed.

Mother and Father are screaming at one another over the phone. I should probably confess it was my ex Four who shit up our door, and likewise contact them about infusing more fiber into their diet, but I worry it would misrepresent the people I associate with on this website. Is it worth the risk to come clean and prevent a possible legal dispute if I may not be able to blog anymore?

I neglected to check Etsy in my earlier quest for an exorcism. I will look into having Kermit cleansed (not replaced never replaced) as I certainly do not wish to stick my dick in haunted. That is a surefire way to get an STC (Sexually Transmitted Curse).

Every day I am attacked by tl while I and my objectively better art are shoved to the sidelines. But I will not cry my tears, the tears of an artist. Nary a drop will shed except from my Dark Heart. But that is weeping every minute of every day..... Heh. I am used to it by now.

The exact location of the Muppet Transformation Caves has yet to be revealed, although I have hinted at it in the past. You may be any kind of muppet you like. I and others will have the materials required. Clay puppet, wooden puppet, felt puppet, meat puppet. The world is your moyster (muppet oyster).

WHAT THE FUCK IS EQUUS?

and why does the croaker quoting it mean anything?

What you need to know for MTJ lore

- Alan Strang is our parallel to MTJ. Like MTJ he is raised by a religious mother and non-religious father
- Alan eventually Blinds six horses because God (Equus) looks at him through their eyes.
- Both create a personal Theology involving the subject of their attractions (kermit and horses)
- Kermit and “a horse” would (respectively) watch them sleep as a child
- (Speculation) Ethan seems to parallel Jill in Equus, as both MTJ and Alan meet them at work, alongside being a “relationship” outside of God (Kermit/Equus) that fails.
- MTJ’s hatred of horses might be a tongue

For those who are wondering, the battle at Dennys was truly legendary.

Alas, no one won, as a strange door appeared at the center of the parking lot and dragged away the Croaker before he could claim victory.

The rational thinker in me is glad he lost, but the empath in me hopes he is not dead.
